

I am very concerned about the proposal. It will cause immense disruption of communication across the spectrum and deny a resource to amateur operators, the military, and other communications services. I urge the FCC to reject the idea. There are many alternatives to provide internet services, including telephone lines, and WIFI systems. Destroying the ability to communicate on HF does not make sense. And it will ruin the HF spectrum.